

The Off the Lip 2020 organizers are pleased to announce that they have partnered with AVANT. Trends in Interdisciplinary Studies to publish a themed special edition titled “Cognitive Innovation for Social Change: Multiple Disciplinary Perspectives towards Sustainable Development.” See Description

This call for publication is a public one, so anyone can submit articles to the issue. However, participants of the OTLip20 Conference are particularly invited to send their papers. Original articles should be 3,000-9,000 words, including all elements (title page, abstract, main text, notes, references, etc). They should be prepared in accordance with the APA guidelines. The manuscripts will be refereed through a peer-review process. Only manuscripts of sufficient quality, accepted (or revised and accepted) by peer-reviewers and editors, will be published. Submissions should be made through our electronic editorial system. A guide for authors and a link to the submission system are available at <http://avant.edu.pl/en/for-authors>

The deadline for submissions is 30th July, 2020. However, it is worth considering submitting your manuscripts much earlier than the deadline. Early submitted manuscripts are reviewed and published faster, in Online First mode. A faster reviewing process for early submitted manuscripts will be beneficial for authors, as well as will allow more flexibility in the editorial and publishing process. Regardless, all these articles will also be published in one collection, edited by representatives of the Avant Project as well as the University of Plymouth, UK and UP Open University, the Philippines.

AVANT is a peer-reviewed, open access, international journal indexed in numerous databases including Scopus, Web of Science (Emerging Sources Citation Index), EBSCO Publishing.

Please do not hesitate to contact us if you have further questions about the process:
otlip20@cognovo.org

